

The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Tim Kaine
United States Senate
388 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Kaine:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc:    The Honorable Lamar Alexander
      The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
      The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
      The Honorable John Barrasso
      The Honorable Michael Bennet
      The Honorable Roy Blunt
      The Honorable John Boozman
      The Honorable Richard M. Burr
      The Honorable Maria Cantwell
      The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
      The Honorable Bill Cassidy
      The Honorable Dan Coats
      The Honorable Susan Collins
      The Honorable Bob Corker
      The Honorable John Cornyn
      The Honorable Tom Cotton
      The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
      The Honorable Steve Daines
      The Honorable Joe Donnelly
      The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
      The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
      The Honorable Joni Ernst
      The Honorable Deb Fischer
      The Honorable Al Franken
      The Honorable Cory Gardner
      The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
      The Honorable Lindsey Graham
      The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
      The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
      The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
      The Honorable Dean Heller
      The Honorable John Hoeven
      The Honorable James M. Inhofe
      The Honorable Johnny Isakson
      The Honorable Ron Johnson
      The Honorable Angus King
      The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
      The Honorable Joe Manchin
      The Honorable Claire McCaskill
      The Honorable Mitch McConnell
      The Honorable Jeff Merkley
      The Honorable Jerry Moran
      The Honorable Lisa Murkowski
      The Honorable Patty Murray

The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Angus King
United States Senate
188 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator King:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

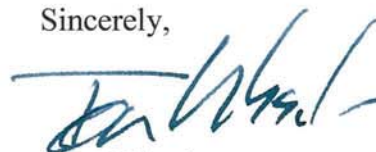

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc:   The Honorable Lamar Alexander
      The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
      The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
      The Honorable John Barrasso
      The Honorable Michael Bennet
      The Honorable Roy Blunt
      The Honorable John Boozman
      The Honorable Richard M. Burr
      The Honorable Maria Cantwell
      The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
      The Honorable Bill Cassidy
      The Honorable Dan Coats
      The Honorable Susan Collins
      The Honorable Bob Corker
      The Honorable John Cornyn
      The Honorable Tom Cotton
      The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
      The Honorable Steve Daines
      The Honorable Joe Donnelly
      The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
      The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
      The Honorable Joni Ernst
      The Honorable Deb Fischer
      The Honorable Al Franken
      The Honorable Cory Gardner
      The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
      The Honorable Lindsey Graham
      The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
      The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
      The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
      The Honorable Dean Heller
      The Honorable John Hoeven
      The Honorable James M. Inhofe
      The Honorable Johnny Isakson
      The Honorable Tim Kaine
      The Honorable Ron Johnson
      The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
      The Honorable Joe Manchin
      The Honorable Claire McCaskill
      The Honorable Mitch McConnell
      The Honorable Jeff Merkley
      The Honorable Jerry Moran
      The Honorable Lisa Murkowski
      The Honorable Patty Murray

The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
United States Senate
302 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Klobuchar:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

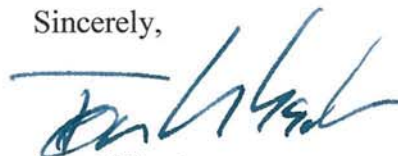

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc:     The Honorable Lamar Alexander
          The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
          The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
          The Honorable John Barrasso
          The Honorable Michael Bennet
          The Honorable Roy Blunt
          The Honorable John Boozman
          The Honorable Richard M. Burr
          The Honorable Maria Cantwell
          The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
          The Honorable Bill Cassidy
          The Honorable Dan Coats
          The Honorable Susan Collins
          The Honorable Bob Corker
          The Honorable John Cornyn
          The Honorable Tom Cotton
          The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
          The Honorable Steve Daines
          The Honorable Joe Donnelly
          The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
          The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
          The Honorable Joni Ernst
          The Honorable Deb Fischer
          The Honorable Al Franken
          The Honorable Cory Gardner
          The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
          The Honorable Lindsey Graham
          The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
          The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
          The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
          The Honorable Dean Heller
          The Honorable John Hoeven
          The Honorable James M. Inhofe
          The Honorable Johnny Isakson
          The Honorable Ron Johnson
          The Honorable Tim Kaine
          The Honorable Angus King
          The Honorable Joe Manchin
          The Honorable Claire McCaskill
          The Honorable Mitch McConnell
          The Honorable Jeff Merkley
          The Honorable Jerry Moran
          The Honorable Lisa Murkowski
          The Honorable Patty Murray

The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Joe Manchin
United States Senate
306 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Manchin:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

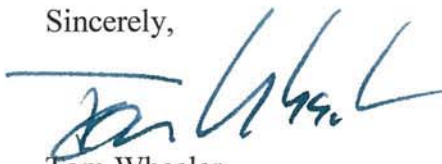

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc:     The Honorable Lamar Alexander
          The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
          The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
          The Honorable John Barrasso
          The Honorable Michael Bennet
          The Honorable Roy Blunt
          The Honorable John Boozman
          The Honorable Richard M. Burr
          The Honorable Maria Cantwell
          The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
          The Honorable Bill Cassidy
          The Honorable Dan Coats
          The Honorable Susan Collins
          The Honorable Bob Corker
          The Honorable John Cornyn
          The Honorable Tom Cotton
          The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
          The Honorable Steve Daines
          The Honorable Joe Donnelly
          The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
          The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
          The Honorable Joni Ernst
          The Honorable Deb Fischer
          The Honorable Al Franken
          The Honorable Cory Gardner
          The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
          The Honorable Lindsey Graham
          The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
          The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
          The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
          The Honorable Dean Heller
          The Honorable John Hoeven
          The Honorable James M. Inhofe
          The Honorable Johnny Isakson
          The Honorable Ron Johnson
          The Honorable Tim Kaine
          The Honorable Angus King
          The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
          The Honorable Claire McCaskill
          The Honorable Mitch McConnell
          The Honorable Jeff Merkley
          The Honorable Jerry Moran
          The Honorable Lisa Murkowski
          The Honorable Patty Murray

The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Claire McCaskill
United States Senate
SH-506 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator McCaskill:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

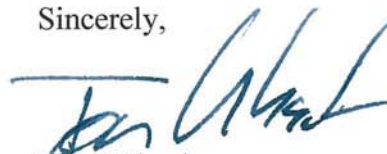

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc:     The Honorable Lamar Alexander
          The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
          The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
          The Honorable John Barrasso
          The Honorable Michael Bennet
          The Honorable Roy Blunt
          The Honorable John Boozman
          The Honorable Richard M. Burr
          The Honorable Maria Cantwell
          The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
          The Honorable Bill Cassidy
          The Honorable Dan Coats
          The Honorable Susan Collins
          The Honorable Bob Corker
          The Honorable John Cornyn
          The Honorable Tom Cotton
          The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
          The Honorable Steve Daines
          The Honorable Joe Donnelly
          The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
          The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
          The Honorable Joni Ernst
          The Honorable Deb Fischer
          The Honorable Al Franken
          The Honorable Cory Gardner
          The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
          The Honorable Lindsey Graham
          The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
          The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
          The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
          The Honorable Dean Heller
          The Honorable John Hoeven
          The Honorable James M. Inhofe
          The Honorable Johnny Isakson
          The Honorable Ron Johnson
          The Honorable Tim Kaine
          The Honorable Angus King
          The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
          The Honorable Joe Manchin
          The Honorable Mitch McConnell
          The Honorable Jeff Merkley
          The Honorable Jerry Moran
          The Honorable Lisa Murkowski

The Honorable Patty Murray
The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Mitch McConnell
United States Senate
317 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator McConnell:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc: The Honorable Lamar Alexander
The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
The Honorable John Barrasso
The Honorable Michael Bennet
The Honorable Roy Blunt
The Honorable John Boozman
The Honorable Richard M. Burr
The Honorable Maria Cantwell
The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
The Honorable Bill Cassidy
The Honorable Dan Coats
The Honorable Susan Collins
The Honorable Bob Corker
The Honorable John Cornyn
The Honorable Tom Cotton
The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
The Honorable Steve Daines
The Honorable Joe Donnelly
The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
The Honorable Joni Ernst
The Honorable Deb Fischer
The Honorable Al Franken
The Honorable Cory Gardner
The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
The Honorable Lindsey Graham
The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
The Honorable Dean Heller
The Honorable John Hoeven
The Honorable James M. Inhofe
The Honorable Johnny Isakson
The Honorable Ron Johnson
The Honorable Tim Kaine
The Honorable Angus King
The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
The Honorable Joe Manchin
The Honorable Claire McCaskill
The Honorable Jeff Merkley
The Honorable Jerry Moran
The Honorable Lisa Murkowski

The Honorable Patty Murray
The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Jeff Merkley
United States Senate
107 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Merkley:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

Tom Wheeler

cc: The Honorable Lamar Alexander
The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
The Honorable John Barrasso
The Honorable Michael Bennet
The Honorable Roy Blunt
The Honorable John Boozman
The Honorable Richard M. Burr
The Honorable Maria Cantwell
The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
The Honorable Bill Cassidy
The Honorable Dan Coats
The Honorable Susan Collins
The Honorable Bob Corker
The Honorable John Cornyn
The Honorable Tom Cotton
The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
The Honorable Steve Daines
The Honorable Joe Donnelly
The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
The Honorable Joni Ernst
The Honorable Deb Fischer
The Honorable Al Franken
The Honorable Cory Gardner
The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
The Honorable Lindsey Graham
The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
The Honorable Dean Heller
The Honorable John Hoeven
The Honorable James M. Inhofe
The Honorable Johnny Isakson
The Honorable Ron Johnson
The Honorable Tim Kaine
The Honorable Angus King
The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
The Honorable Joe Manchin
The Honorable Claire McCaskill
The Honorable Mitch McConnell
The Honorable Jerry Moran
The Honorable Lisa Murkowski

The Honorable Patty Murray
The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Jerry Moran
United States Senate
345 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Moran:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.

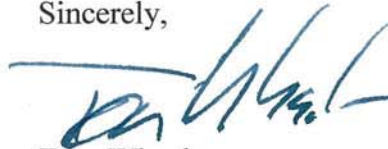

While it is encouraging the stakeholders appear to have come to consensus on the notion of a “two-path” approach to reforming the program that is comprised of both a model-based path and updates to the existing mechanisms, agreement as to structure is a long way from agreement as to substance. Specifically, while the parties agree on the importance of broadband support, the parties have stated that, “consensus has not yet been reached regarding such a broadband-only support mechanism.”

I share your concern about rural broadband and I recognize that different rate-of-return carriers have different equities. Since this is a program designed to help rate-of-return carriers bring service to rural consumers, and we all agree on the need to reform the program to support the deployment of broadband, it is a matter of significant concern that the rate-of-return parties in interest have not reached agreement on an approach that will allocate funding in a way that results in additional rural deployment of broadband in the future.

I recognize the substantial time, effort, and resources that have been invested in this effort to date by stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. And I am committed to finding a path forward by the end of the year. But it is important to have a solution – or set of solutions – that creates the right incentives to deploy modern networks throughout rural America, meets the Commission’s overarching policy objectives, and has the widespread support of the rate-of-return carrier community. Stakeholders have not presented us with that solution yet, but I remain hopeful that the parties will use the extra time they have to address the outstanding issues. Without the support of the nation’s rate-of-return providers of rural service, it is difficult to see how any reform of these universal service programs could successfully deliver on our shared goal of more robust broadband throughout rural America.

I look forward to working with you to make continued progress on the deployment of broadband to consumers throughout rural areas a reality.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Tom Wheeler", with a stylized flourish extending from the end.

Tom Wheeler

cc: The Honorable Lamar Alexander
The Honorable Kelly Ayotte
The Honorable Tammy Baldwin
The Honorable John Barrasso
The Honorable Michael Bennet
The Honorable Roy Blunt
The Honorable John Boozman
The Honorable Richard M. Burr
The Honorable Maria Cantwell
The Honorable Shelley Moore Capito
The Honorable Bill Cassidy
The Honorable Dan Coats
The Honorable Susan Collins
The Honorable Bob Corker
The Honorable John Cornyn
The Honorable Tom Cotton
The Honorable Michael D. Crapo
The Honorable Steve Daines
The Honorable Joe Donnelly
The Honorable Richard J. Durbin
The Honorable Michael B. Enzi
The Honorable Joni Ernst
The Honorable Deb Fischer
The Honorable Al Franken
The Honorable Cory Gardner
The Honorable Kirsten Gillibrand
The Honorable Lindsey Graham
The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
The Honorable Orrin G. Hatch
The Honorable Heidi Heitkamp
The Honorable Dean Heller
The Honorable John Hoeven
The Honorable James M. Inhofe
The Honorable Johnny Isakson
The Honorable Ron Johnson
The Honorable Tim Kaine
The Honorable Angus King
The Honorable Amy Klobuchar
The Honorable Joe Manchin
The Honorable Claire McCaskill
The Honorable Mitch McConnell
The Honorable Jeff Merkley
The Honorable Lisa Murkowski

The Honorable Patty Murray
The Honorable Gary Peters
The Honorable Rob Portman
The Honorable Jim Risch
The Honorable Pat Roberts
The Honorable Michael Rounds
The Honorable Brian Schatz
The Honorable Tim Scott
The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen
The Honorable Debbie Stabenow
The Honorable Dan Sullivan
The Honorable Jon Tester
The Honorable John Thune
The Honorable Thom Tillis
The Honorable David Vitter
The Honorable Roger Wicker
The Honorable Ron Wyden

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

May 29, 2015

The Honorable Lisa Murkowski
United States Senate
709 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Senator Murkowski:

Thank you for your letter urging the Commission to reform our Universal Service Fund ("USF") mechanisms to support broadband deployment in rural America. The universal service program is one of the most important tools at our disposal to ensure that consumers and businesses in rural America have the same opportunities as their urban and suburban counterparts to be active participants in the 21st century economy. I share your goal of ensuring that the universal service program better reflects today's marketplace and technology in areas served by rate-of-return carriers.

As I explained at the Senate Commerce Committee's FCC Oversight Hearing earlier this year, resolving this issue will require all the stakeholders to work together and make hard decisions to reach consensus on the best path forward. Everybody agrees that the goal of any changes should be supporting broadband in rural areas, but so long as the recipients of USF funding remain divided, achieving those goals remains problematic. Those rate-of-return carriers who provide rural service must coalesce around changes that create the proper incentives to deploy and maintain robust broadband networks. The lack of such a plan will prevent policy makers from making informed decisions about the best way to serve both the rural Americans who use those networks and the ratepayers who contribute that support.

With that in mind, I directed my staff and staff members from the Commission's Wireline Bureau to meet with stakeholders in the rate-of-return community. In that meeting, which was joined by Commissioner O'Rielly, his staff, and Commissioner Clyburn's staff, we gave stakeholders thirty days to work together to develop an approach that both has the widespread support of the rate-of-return community and meets the principles unanimously outlined by the Commission in our April 2014 Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

On May 20, at a meeting with Wireline Bureau staff, the stakeholders asked for additional time to continue to work on a solution. We agreed to an additional two weeks, but if we are going to get this done this year, there is not only a need for consensus, but also time for public comment on any new proposals and for the Commission to evaluate the proposals in light of the comments received. The search for consensus cannot drag on.